

Thursday 8th December Hedgehog Talk

7:30 PM at the Friends Meeting House, 126
Hampton Road, Redland, Bristol BS6 6JE

Writer and ecologist Hugh Warwick will be talking about one of Britain's best loved animals - the hedgehog. He has studied them, on and off, for over 25 years, has written about them, rescued them, radio tracked them and talked, incessantly, about them. He will be sharing his insights into the madness of the extreme end of the hedgehog lovers world while arguing that a little bit of hedgehog love in all our lives could be the key to the salvation of humanity. He will also be signing copies of his book, A Prickly Affair.

The talk is free to members of Bristol and Gloucester Mammal Group and Bristol Naturalists' Society or £2 to non-members. There will be an interval for free tea and coffee. The talk will conclude at around 9.30 PM.
